cheered the men back of him. Ritchey was given four wide ones and Leach went ou on an easy grounder to Powell. Jack O'Connor smashed one at Kruger which was too hot for the little man to handle. Wallace was right behind and captured the ball, but spoiled the play by a wild throw to Mc-Gann. On this error Wagner and Leach scored. The fans ruefully meditated aloud when Phillippi hit safely to center and O'Connor crossed the pan with the sixth run. Phillippi gained third on a ball that passed "Popper Bill" Schriver, but there expired when Clarke struck out.

With a discouraging six hung up in Pitts-burg's favor on the bulletin board, Burkett lined hotly to left, but Midget Leach sprung his slight avoirdupols into the air and robbed Jesse of a safe hit. McGann and Donovan failed to make connection and er was unable to do anything but swing viciously at the atmosphere thrice. The following inning Leach was caught at the middle bag by Schriver's neat throw for the third out. Then came the chapter of sen-ational events which netted the locals four out features, excepting Midget Leach's home-run drive to center. The pyrotechnical display began in the seventh, when the outlook held little hope for the locals. Clark singled safely to center and Beaumont dropped one in Donovan's hands. Nichols covered himself with glory by capturing a long, low fly hit out by Davis and making a perfect return to McGann, registering a double play, as Clarke, thinking the catch impossible, had proceeded so far on his way to third that he did not stand a chance of returning safely to the first sack.

What the Cardinals did to Chesbro's slants from that time forth is well told by the official score. Burkett reached first on a scratch hit in front of the plate. Bransfield happened to be in Burkett's way and turned a double somersault. Bransfield was perceptibly agitated and failed to stop McGann's savage grass-cutter. Jack O'Connor let a ball get by him and Burkett camped on third. Patsy Donovan failed to do his usual timely stunt, sending an easy fly to Clarke. Wallace, however, was there with the goods. He beat out a hit to Leach and chased in with the tying run amid the frantic cheers of the well-nigh hysterical fans. "Oom Paul" Kruger atoned for his error by hitting through Ritchey, and while Beaumont played hide and seek with the sphere Wallace tallied, making the Cardinals one to the good. Still, the fireworks continued. Nichols, who fielded faultlessly in the center garden during the conflict, smashed the ball out to left center for a clean two-bagger. Ryan sailed a fly to Davis, far enough out to prevent a throw home from choking off Kruger's

To-Day's Schedule.

The score was 12 to 7.

The Pittsburg team incidentally discovered that which any ball player should know, namely, that the person of the captain of a team playing on his own grounds is too sacred a person to be touched in anger. Eddie Murphy was the medium through which this knowledge was forcibly transmitted to O'Connor. Umpire Hank O'Day, who never vas overpopular with local fandom, made no new friends, either, by calling out a man on a play in which a player not in the game participated.

It was Greek against Greek when the giants of the League met and the battle waged flercely for more than two hours. The warring bands generaled by Patsy Donovan and Fred Clarke struggled des-Donovan and Fred Clarke struggled desperately, first one team and then the other gaining a temporary advantage until the seventh inning, when the terrific bombardment of Chesbro began to tell on the Pirates. The men from the Smoky City fought gamely to the last, but the tribe of the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver, which is the plate by a relay throw to Schriver. Wallace doing the intermediary work. Wallace succeeding in placing a safe one in the same inning and secured the first score for the locals on a beautiful two-bagger by Nichols to left. Ryan sacrificed, but Schriv-Donovan, after getting second wind, was invincible, and the rout was complete.

What for a time threatened to be a freefor-all fight was checked by the police. The Pirates, at first confident and smiling, grew desperate when a comedy of errors nearly tied the score, and a general mixup followed. The scrimmage was started by the aggressive Jack O'Connor, formerly stop work for the Pirates. The locals had secured one score in the second inning and in the third began to find Phillippi to the tune of several hits. Powell and McCann, who made good on neat drives to left and center, were advanced by Donovan's timely rap. Then Wallace drove a clean one to left, scoring Powell and Burkett and advancing Donovan to the third base.

At this juncture the Pirates' ascension took place. Otto Kruger smashed the leather down to Ritchey, who fumbled. As Donovan raced home Ritchie threw wild toward first, and the ball rolled up and hit. the St. Louis players' bench. Immediately there was a scattering. As O'Connor wildly rushed over to capture the ball the crowd and the St. Louis players roared the con-sternation the Pirates felt. O'Connor bumped up against one or two of the play-ers in his attempt to regain the ball, and in the meanwhile Wallace crossed the pan. in the meanwhile Wallace crossed the pan.
O'Connor madly raved and struck the first man he could reach, which happened to be Jesse Burkett, who, with his teammates, was close upon the plate watching Kruger's try for home. In his bilind fury the once idolized Cardinal again swung viciousity and landed on Captain Donovan. Eddie Murphy, aroused by the assault on Donovan, stretched O'Connor prostrate upon the ground. Several of the Pirates by this time had run in and a number of blows were exbad run in and a number of blows were ex-changed before the police separated the lace napping at first, but Bransfield was combatants. A crowd from the bleachers not Johnny-on-the-Spot, and McGann

Fierce wrangling followed the disgraceful assault on Donovan, and the police had their hands full keeping the belligerents apart. Then came the rottenest decision that has been witnessed at League Park for a many

ON PAKE PLAY.

Kruger, while the storm raged around the home plate, was loafing around third.

"Chief" Zimmer, the Pittsburg backstop, "Calef" Zimmer, the Pittsburg backstop, who was not in the game, snatched up the ball and threw to Hans Wagner, third baseman, who touched Kruger with the ball while the latter was off his base. Kruger smiled at the crude joke and walked back to Taird, but an instant later there was a fresh outburst from the excited group of players at the plate, when Umpire Hank C'Day called Kruger out. O'Day called Kruger out.

O'Day called Kruger out.

In vain did Donovan protest. The Pirates took their cue, and raised a hue and cry also, claiming that the ball put on Kruger by Wagner was thrown by O'Connor, who at the time of the play was madly pounding Jesse Burkett in the back. O'Day refused to recede from his decision, and Kruger walked to the bench, while the crowd vented its indispation on O'Day. indignation on O'Day.
POWELL PITCHED AN EXCELLENT GAME.

The Cardinals had ample revenge, how-ever, in the following innings. Jack Powell, a little weak, but still the same Jack that has plloted the Donovanites to more than one victory, twirled a rare article of ball. The Pirates, who had obtained a big lead in the first inning, were able to hit but few balls that were not pulled down by the outer guard or stopped by the local infield.

Phillippi, who is reckoned as good a pitcher as adorns the staff of the Smoky Cityites, went to the rubber for the visitors, but he was soon found and after the sensational third inning, he was retired in favor of Chesbro. The latter was a "cinch." His delivery was batted all over the field, but, evidently remembering the coming games, Clarke was not disposed to put in a third box artist and the slaughter proceeded until the close of the game.

IN PIRST INKING.

The Pittsburg aggregation faced Jack Powell confidently. Fred Clarke rapped out a nest single and Beaumont reached the initial sack on Kruger's error. Then Powell Juggled a ball long enough for Davis to reach and camp on McGann's sack. The bases were full and with no outs and two arrors charged to the Cardinals the outlook errors charged to the Cardinals the outlook was blue. Hans Wagner, who has been hitting the ball some this year, registered a clean hit to right, scoring Clarke and Beaumont. Bransfield filed to Donovan and "Lefty" Davis, the Brooklyn castoff, crossed the plate, starting after the ball settled in Donovan's mitt. CHICAGO 5, CINCINNATI 2.

Even the Anarchists Were Able to Beat the Cripples. Chicago, July 26.—Two errors, two steals, a single and McCormick's triple defeated Cincinnati to-day in the fourth inning.
